DEATH FOLLOWED EXPOSURE TO COLD

Andrew Thornton, of Austin, Found in Ditch Near Crothersville in Unconscious Condition.

INVESTIGATION OF CORONER

Discovery of Bottle of Whiskey Leads
Officials to Believe The Man
Was Intoxicated.

With his clothing covered with ice and his body paralyzed from cold, Andrew Thornton, of Austin, was found in an unconscious condition about 9 o'clock this morning in a ditch along the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks, one and one-half miles south of Crothersville. He was brought to Crothersville but died about one-half hour after he was found. He was sixty years of age.

Coroner W. C. Dailey was notified of Thornton's death and went to Crothersville at 11 o'clock this morning to hold the inquest. The body was removed to Kovenor's undertaking establishment and prepared for burial. The inquest was held there.

Coroner Dailey called a number of witnesses and found that Thornton came to Seymour Friday afternoon and boarded a south bound I. & L. limited car at 9:11 o'clock. As this car does not stop at Austin the conductor told him to leave the car at Crothersville. It is supposed he started to walk home as soon as he departed from the station. From this it is believed that he must have fallen in the ditch about 9:45 o'clock and remained exposed to the cold throughout the night. There were several inches of ice and water in the ditch. His clothing was saturated.

A search of Thornton's clothing revealed a pint bottle of whiskey and it is reported that he was under the influence of liquor when he left the car. He was probably walking along the track and stumbled on a cross-tie and fell headlong into the ditch on the west side of the right of way. His face was out of the water or he would likely have drowned before he was found. As he was unconscious when brought to Crothersville no statement could be obtained from him as to how he happened to fall from the track.

Mr. Thornton was well known at Crothersville and in Vernon township. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. John Caldwell and Mrs. Cecil Owens, both of whom live at Austin.

PURSE SNATCHER GETS MONEY AND ESCAPES IN DARKNESS

Mrs. Elizabeth Farrell Held up By Unknown Man on South
Chestnut Street.

Mrs. Elizabeth Farrell was held up by a unknown man about 5:30 o'clock Friday evening on South Chestnut street and her hand bag containing a small amount of change was stolen. Mrs. Farrell was returning home from a shopping trip and just as she approached the residence of Mrs. Jerry Anderson she heard the man walking up behind her. She paid no attention to the stranger until he grabbed the hand bag.

Mrs. Farrell endeavored to hold to the satchel but was unable to do so as she carried two small packages. The man grabbed one of these and threw it into the street. He roughly jerked the handbag from her arm and ran towards Carter street.

Mrs. Farrell shouted for help and attracted the attention of Roy Roegge. He ran to her assistance but the man had secured possession of the bag and had disappeared before Mr. Roegge arrived. This morning Anthony Schrenk found the satchel on High street and none of its contents had been taken except the money. The police were notified of the theft but were not able to find trace of the man.

CONTRACT FOR TENT FOR CHAUTAUQUA IS AWARDED

Directors of Association Accept Offer of the Anchor Tent Company.

The directors of the chautauqua association held a meeting Friday night at the office of the president, Judge O. H. Montgomery. Several questions relative to the assembly next summer were discussed.

A number of firms had been asked for bids for the main tent and also for the smaller tents that will be rented to individuals. The contract was let to the Anchor Tent Company and a request for the same tent used last year will be filed. It is expected that a number of smaller tents will be rented this year. The directors will soon make final decision as what kind of chairs or seats will be used this year. They are endeavoring to rent or purchase chairs or benches that are equipped with backs and several kinds have been considered.

LOCAL BASKET BALL TEAM DEFEATED BY FRANKLIN

Seymour Boys Lost Fast Game by
Score of 35 to 24—Two Players
Were Out of Contest.

The Seymour basket ball team was defeated by the Franklin high school at Franklin Friday night by a score of 35 to 24. The local team was weakened by the absence of two of the regular players. In spite of this handicap, however, the players gave the Franklin boys a good contest. Franklin recently defeated North Vernon by a similar score.

The Franklin team is regarded as one of the best in southern Indiana but the Seymour boys had hoped to score a victory last night. The game was looked upon as one of the hardest of the schedule. The high school team is now giving its attention to the remaining games of the season and expects to win practically all of them by hard and consistent practice.

CENTRAL WEST IN GRIP OF BLIZZARD

Several Deaths and Heavy Property
Loss Reported in Indiana,
Illinois and Michigan.

TRAFFIC IS DEMORALIZED

Telephone and Telegraph Service in Worse Condition Than During The Flood Last March.

By United Press.
Indianapolis, January 31—Several deaths and a heavy loss of property are reported from Indiana, Illinois and Michigan which were swept by a severe storm early today. Telephone and telegraph service is crippled but dispatches of widespread damage have been received. Illinois and Michigan suffered more heavily than Indiana.

With the wires broken and the poles down the telephone and telegraph service in the three states is in worse condition than it was during the flood last March. It is impossible to reach many localities by wire. Hundreds of linemen are repairing the broken lines and poles today.

Two fatalities are reported at Chicago. One man at Indianapolis was frozen to death and another was electrocuted by coming in contact with a telephone wire that had been heavily charged by a broken electric light wire. Several persons were injured.

The railroads and traction lines in the central western states suffered heavy damage. The service is demoralized on several roads, and serious delays of trains have occurred on others.

Because of the demoralized condition of the telephones and telegraphs detailed reports of the storm damage have not been received from all parts of this state.

TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH LINES DAMAGED BY STORM

Winter Blizzard Swoops Down as Climax of the Cold Wave—
Traffic Delayed.

As the final chapter of the cold wave which chased away the warm spring weather a typical winter storm, with wind, sleet and snow swooped down in Indiana and adjoining states Friday night. The storm was introduced by a cold rain which later turned to sleet and snow.

During the day the local railroads and traction lines have experienced considerable trouble from delays and linemen have been at work since an early hour this morning repairing the telephone wires that were broken by the sleet and blown down by the gale. The B. & O. Southwestern experienced considerable trouble on the Illinois division where ten and twelve telegraph poles in a row were laid low by the wind. In many places the wires were broken by the weight of the sleet.

The Indianapolis, Columbus and Southern Traction Company experienced little trouble today but the service was out of commission Friday night. The local car leaving Indianapolis at 9 o'clock did not reach Sey-

NEW RATES BECOME EFFECTIVE FEB. 1

Local Shippers Will be Benefited by Reduction of Schedules of the Express Companies.

"BLOCK" SYSTEM IS ADOPTED

Lower Rates For Intra-state Shipments Have Not Been Authorized by Indiana Commission.

Seymour shippers will be benefited by the reductions in express rates recently ordered by the interstate commerce commission and which become effective Sunday, February 1. No changes will be made in the intra-state schedules as the Indiana commerce commission has authorized no reductions. The local express offices have received the new rates and the agents are familiarizing themselves with the new schedules.

Only small reductions and in many instances no changes at all will be made in shipments of one hundred pounds sent out of the state points. The smaller shipments, however, may be sent at less cost than formerly and some of the rates show a decrease of as much as fifty per cent. It is expected that with the new schedules the express companies will be better enabled to compete with the parcel post service.

Under the order of the interstate commerce commission the entire United States is divided into blocks and the rates are prepared for each division. Each block is subdivided into smaller sections. Seymour is located in block No. 1,040 and is the sub-division "A." The rates must be followed by all the express companies doing business within the same block. Smaller towns having only one express office will be benefited by the new rates as the carriers have been making double charges where it was necessary to transfer the package to another company.

Local business men are especially interested in the new rates to Chicago, New York and Philadelphia. The old 100-pound rate to New York was $2.50 and this has been reduced to $2.30. The rate has been lowered for each pound. The former 3-pound rate to New York was formerly 35 cents but the new rate is 26 cents; 5-pound rate formerly 60 cents, now 30 cents; 10-pound rate was 75 cents, now 41 cents; 15-pound rate was 85 cents, now 51 cents; 20-pound rate was $1, now 62 cents.

The changes in the Chicago rates are as follows: 100-pound rate, $1.25 is unchanged. 3 pounds was 35 cents, now 23 cents; 5 pounds 45 cents, now 25 cents; 10 pounds 55 cents, now 30 cents; 15 pounds 60 cents, now 36 cents; 20 pounds 70 cents, now 41 cents.

The Philadelphia changes are: 100-pound rate $2.25 is unchanged. 3 pounds 45 cents, now 24 cents; 5 pounds 60 cents, now 30 cents; 10 pounds 75 cents, now 40 cents; 15 pounds 85 cents, now 51 cents; 20 pounds $1, now 61 cents.

The express companies expect that under the new rates the shipments of small packages will be greater as they will share part of the business which has gone to the post office since the parcel post service was inaugurated. Under the present parcel post rules, limiting the weight to fifty pounds, the express companies have a monopoly on the transfer of heavier packages. It is said that the order of the interstate commerce commission is a forerunner of another which will be issued in a short time by the state commission making still further reductions in the rates for shipments within the state. The intra-state rates were reduced about a year ago.

OPPOSITION TO REMOVAL OF UNION HEADQUARTERS

Indianapolis Typographical Union
Against Resolution of Terre Haute Printers.

By United Press.
Indianapolis, Jan. 31—Opposition has developed to the agitation inaugurated shortly after the street railway and the teamsters strikes here to remove from Indianapolis the headquarters of many international unions with their great financial resources and their expenditures in this city. The movement was started in retaliation for alleged anti-union labor spirit manifested by the city's leading business men and by the Wallace administration.

The opposition came from Indianapolis Typographical Union No. 1 which is circulating a statement relative to the proposal of the Terre Haute Printers' that the headquarters of the international typographers union here be removed to another city.

All sister unions are asked to withhold their indorsement of the Terre Haute resolution. The circular declares that the claim that a large percentage of the bankers of business men of Indianapolis are members of the National Association of Manufacturers has not been proven. The local typographers recall the aid received from local bankers during the memorable fight for a universal eight hour day.

The argument is also urged that many unions are permanently located here and can not remove from the city without suffering great financial loss in buildings. The central location of Indianapolis is mentioned and it is said that "the business men of Indianapolis are not any more antagonistic to organized labor than are the employers in other places."

Fair Dates.

Officers of the Southeastern Fair Association have arranged the dates for the 1914 fairs as follows:
North Vernon, July 28-31.
Osgood, August 4-7.
Columbus, August 17-21.
Edinburg, July 21-24.
Franklin, August 25-28.
Rushville, August 25-28.
Shelbyville, September 1-4.
Lawrenceburg, August 4-7.

The announcement from Washington that Congressman Dixon has recommended A. Bert Weyl, secretary of the Johnson county democratic central committee, as postmaster at Franklin, leads local democrats to believe that the next postmaster of Seymour will be appointed soon. The terms at Franklin and Seymour expire about the same time.

The seven local churches that have taken the initiative in the "Go-to-church" campaign tomorrow have completed arrangements and expect large congregations at all services. Several of the churches have arranged special song services.

SURVIVORS SAFE, TELL OF HEROISM

Passengers Rescued From Ill Fated
Monroe Relate Remarkable
Stories of Bravery.

FORTY LOST LIVES AT SEA

Thomas R. Harrington Floats on Water For Two Hours Supporting Wife by Hair.

By United Press.
New York, January 31—Late reports relative to the horrible sea disaster yesterday when the Old Dominion Liner, Monroe, sunk after crashing into the Merchants & Miners' Steamer, Nantucket, place the number of fatalities at forty with ninety-nine persons rescued. The survivors were brought here today and related thrilling stories of bravery and heroism upon the part of the officers of the ill fated ship.

One of the most remarkable stories of how a husband made a desperate fight to save his wife only to have her die for want of medical attention is related by Thomas R. Harrington, who arrived here today. Mrs. Harrington suffered a broken arm when the Nantucket and Monroe collided and they were thrown from their state room. Mrs. Harrington begged her husband to allow her to remain with the ship knowing that death was inevitable.

The waves dashed over the sinking Monroe and washed Mr. and Mrs. Harrington from the steamer into the sea. He held her above the water until he succeeded in coiling her hair into a rope which he held between his teeth. He floated on the water for more than two hours and was able to keep his wife's head above the surface. A life boat filled with survivors came close to them and they shouted for help but the passengers in the frail boat refused to heed the call.

They were finally picked up by the Nantucket. Mrs. Harrington was a nervous wreck and died a few hours after they were rescued. After her death a steward came into the state room and insisted that the body should be thrown overboard, but Harrington refused to give his consent and a fight ensued. In the fight Harrington struck the steward over the eye and threw him from the state room. He brought his wife's body with him to New York.

UNIQUE SOCIETY TO SAVE DRUNKARDS

Its Members Former Slaves to Alcohol Habit.

FROM ALL WALKS OF LIFE.

Physicians and Bankers Among the Two Hundred Charter Members of Organization Formed Under Auspices of Salvation Army—Branches to Be Established Throughout the Country.

As a starter 200 men have qualified for membership in the United Order of Reformed Boozers inaugurated in New York city by Colonel W. A. McIntyre of the Salvation Army. The 200 have all given satisfactory evidence that they were in their bibbling days thirty-third degree drunks. They will be the pioneers in a movement whose purpose is to rescue victims of the alcohol habit.

It is intended to organize branches in Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, St. Louis and in fact, all over the United States and Canada.

The 200 charter members of this unique organization are bankers, publishers, editors, physicians, a scion of European nobility, a former United States army captain, a man who held the same position of honor in the British army, some merchants who are winning back a large slice of their lost prestige and fortune, a former bartender, who said he failed in business because he personally consumed the profits; a druggist, several men who now have poultry farms and representatives of nearly all trades and all professions, including the law and ministry.

Eager to Save Their Fellow Man.
These men, Colonel McIntyre declares, are now complete masters of themselves. They are intelligent, aggressive, enlightened and law abiding citizens, who are anxious to assist in the work of reclaiming men who are now so far removed from good influences as once was their lot.

"This is no joke organization," said Colonel McIntyre. "It is the most serious thing I have ever undertaken, and those associated with me are quite convinced that we have hit on a scheme that will be tremendously beneficial to the men we want to reach as well as to those who are now safely on the wagon."

"All the details have not been worked out, but I rather think we will make of the United Order of Reformed Boozers a fraternal society. It may be that we will have sick benefits and a limited insurance feature in connection with it. The reformed boozers is excluded from these benefits in the ordinary way. Naturally enough, insurance companies would not consider him a good risk, and this scheme may on examination prove to be impracticable with us. But we can at least have a system of mutual help which is bound to prove beneficial."

Discipline For Erring Members.
"The man who tumbles off the water wagon will not be expelled from the organization, but he will be punished by being excluded from service on committees, and the right to vote will be denied him until he gives evidence of amendment."

Colonel McIntyre believes that the man who has never tasted liquor is poorly qualified to deal with the poor fellow whose craving for the burning stuff has become an obsession.

"It is the fellow who has been down and out," he says, "who has tasted the very dregs and after a titanic struggle with the demon has conquered who knows how to reach the man who is in that condition."

Colonel McIntyre, who has been associated with the Salvation Army as an official for the past thirty years, has introduced a number of innovations, all of which are said to have proved successful.

A BOOK BY 2,000 SCHOLARS.

Chinese Encyclopedia Placed Volume on Volume 450 Feet High.

Wilfred Merton has lent to the London library a volume containing two sections of the famous Chinese encyclopedia, which he picked up for a small sum in a London book shop.

The volume comprises sections 19, 805 and 19,806, and chiefly deals with the subject of bamboos. The "Yung-Lo-Ta-Tien," or "Great Dictionary of Yung Lo," comprises, as pointed out by Professor Giles in the Nineteenth Century of April, 1901, 22,577 separate sections bound up into 11,100 volumes, "each half an inch in thickness, so that were all the volumes laid flat one upon another the column thus formed would reach a height of 450 feet, or nearly forty-six feet higher than the top of St. Paul's."

The Great Encyclopedia of China easily ranks as the biggest literary undertaking in the world, having had over 2,000 scholars engaged in its compilation and containing a total of 917,480 pages and 366,392,000 characters.

TO SERVE ENDS IN JUSTICE

Witnesses in Terre Haute Case Must Go Under Bond.

Terre Haute, Ind., Jan. 31.—On motion of Special Prosecutor Joseph Roach, Judge Fortune ordered thirty witnesses who are to be called by the state in the election fraud trials to be brought into court in order that the court put them under bond or their own recognizance to assure appearance in court on the date set for the trials, Feb. 16.

This motion was entered by Special Prosecutor Roach on a charge that one of the most important witnesses of the state, Samuel F. McGuinn, had left the jurisdiction of the court, and on information that other witnesses are proposing to leave the jurisdiction of the court in order to defeat the ends of justice.

Roach in his petition alleges that it is his belief, based on reliable information, that McGuinn had been procured to leave the jurisdiction of the court by persons interested in defeating the ends of justice.

Coat Tail Saved His Life.
Hammond, Ind., Jan. 31.—When Phillip Lewis, an automobile truck driver, was crossing Wolf river bridge he was hurled from his seat in the machine over the side of the bridge by the breaking of an axle. The tail of his overcoat saved him from almost certain death. It caught on and was pierced by a projecting rod, and his cries brought help after he had been hanging head down for an hour.

Girl's Painful Plight.
Shelbyville, Ind., Jan. 31.—The right hand of Justine McCain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse McCain, was caught in a steel trap which was set for rats in the cellar of their home. The mother of the child was unable to release the girl's hand from the trap and the suffering was endured until Mr. McCain could be called in from the field where he was at work. The hand was badly mangled.

Burglar Is Caught in Act.
Bloomington, Ind., Jan. 31.—A man giving his name as Carl Williams of Cincinnati and his age as twenty-five was arrested here while burglarizing a jewelry store. He had taken $200 worth of watches and jewelry and was making his getaway when nabbed by officers.

Suit to Set Aside Will of Late Judge Dykeman.

CREATES SOCIAL SENSATION

A Natural Daughter of Whom the People of Logansport Knew Nothing Comes Forward With Claims Conceded as Valid by Executor and Contest Will of Late Well-Known Jurist Disposing of Big Estate.

Logansport, Ind., Jan. 31.—Mrs. Pauline Levinson of Peoria, Ill., has filed suit in the circuit court to set aside the will of the late Judge D. D. Dykeman, which disposes of property valued at nearly $350,000. Mrs. Levinson, in her statement, asserts that she is the daughter of the deceased jurist, but that he was not married to her mother.

That the late Judge Dykeman has a child living is surprising news to the people of Cass county, for it was the unceasing lament of the jurist when alive that he had no children. His love for children and the many youngsters he took from the orphan's home to live with him were taken to indicate his desire to fill a void in his life.

Mrs. Pauline Levinson, the plaintiff, is the daughter of the wife of a former employee of Judge Dykeman in this city. That Judge Dykeman was her father is readily conceded by the executor of the Dykeman estate, who, it seems, has known for years that the daughter existed and that Judge Dykeman had frequently made written acknowledgment of paternity.

One letter in particular which accompanies the complaint to break the will, is a pathetic review of his life by Judge Dykeman, wherein he writes to Mrs. Levinson urging her to marry and deploring the fact that his transgressions saddened the life of his wife and also prevented him from owning and having at his side his only child.

Inquiry discloses that Mrs. Mary Dykeman, wife of Judge Dykeman, became aware of the existence of this child of her husband's and that the knowledge of it embittered her final days.

SCHOOL YEAR ROUND URGED BY FEDERAL COMMISSIONER

Would Abolish Summer Vacation in Favor of Vocational Work.

Characterizing the practice of closing the public schools during the summer months as "primitive and preposterous" and declaring that the most important problem of today is to "keep the city boys from three months' contamination in the streets," P. P. Claxton, commissioner of the United States bureau of education, has approved a plan which would mean continuous school sessions and through which 2,000,000 children might be enlisted in vocational work.

A program for summer vocational work of public school children was submitted to the commissioner by Clyde Allison Mann, secretary of the American Society For Thrift. Mr. Claxton approved the idea and expressed the belief that one vocational teacher in each school should be employed all the year.

"These teachers should teach nature study and the principles of horticulture," says Mr. Claxton, "going from home to home, supervising the garden work and continuing work during the summer vacation.

"It is important to consider the fact that the public schools of the country represent an investment in buildings, grounds and equipment of nearly $2,000,000,000 and that this investment stands idle about one-quarter of the time for no other reason than that in primitive days both teachers and pupils were needed on the farms three or four months in the summer. Thus they learned useful habits and ways of industry, but in our cities we teach today from books that provide little that replaces the homely duties that taught the hands and heads to work together.

"For school gardening," says the commissioner, "the equipment is a small item, and the vacant lots of the city, now idle, would be better for cultivation."

Mr. Claxton points out that in Europe the public schools last year produced $700,000,000 through their vocational work. He estimates that probably 2,000,000 children could be enlisted in the United States within a few years and that their labors would yield them $100,000,000 a year.

FACTS ON CANCER MENACE.

Startling Statistics Emphasize the Necessity of Immediate Treatment.

The American Society For the Control of Cancer has issued the following circular:

Cancer is of greater frequency in adult life than tuberculosis, pneumonia, typhoid fever or digestive diseases.

In 1913 there were about 75,000 deaths from this disease in the United States.

One person in eleven at ages of forty and over dies of cancer.

One woman in eight and one man in fourteen at this period of life are attacked by the disease with fatal results.

Largely because of public ignorance and negligence this terrible scourge now proves fatal in over 90 per cent of the attacks.

Of the 75,000 deaths from this disease in the United States in 1913 about 30,000 were deaths from cancer of the stomach and liver, 12,000 from cancer of the uterus and other organs of generation, 7,500 from cancer of the breast and about 25,500 from cancer of other organs and parts.

Cancer is easily cured when recognized and removed by competent surgery early in its course.

DOCTOR USED KNIFE ON INVADER OF HOME

Sensational Incident Reported From Monessen.

Monessen, Pa., Jan. 31.—Returning unexpectedly to his home at night, Dr. Martin E. Griffith, this city's most prominent physician, telled with his first A. M. Robertson, a leading music teacher of Pittsburgh, whom he discovered attacking Mrs. Griffith, and then, taking a knife, the physician mutilated Robertson in much the same manner as the irate husband did in the Cudahy case. Immediately following the attack and subsequent operation Dr. Griffith called an ambulance and Robertson was taken to the hospital on the orders of the physician. He is in a serious condition, but, according to the hospital authorities, will recover. He is injured for life.

"Robertson was at my house to give a vocal lesson to Mrs. Griffith. He had taught my son on the cornet, also. I had been out in my car and went back to my house unexpectedly. I wanted a wrench," said Dr. Griffith.

"I went around the side of the house and entered the basement through the outside door to get the tool. I heard a scuffling upstairs. I started up the back steps not quite realizing what it all meant. The stairs lead up to the butler's pantry, and from there I went to the front room. There I found this man scuffling with my wife. Then it happened."

HOW A MILLION A YEAR COULD BE SAVED ON OIL.

The Government Ownership Project Which Is Under Consideration.

In consequence of an investigation disclosing the advantages of oil equipped battleships Secretaries Daniels and Lane, Chairman Padgett of the house naval affairs committee and others have been conferring over a project for government ownership of oil lands and pipe lines for furnishing the navy with its own fuel. Rear Admiral Griffin, chief of the bureau of steam engineering, has filed with the house naval committee a statement outlining the project with recommendations.

Because of the increased cost of oil, which naval officials say has gone up 50 per cent during the past year, "with the navy multiplying the consumption and the oil companies multiplying the price," plans are under way for making the navy independent of oil companies by reserving lands or acquiring them and by developing its own oil resources.

Besides oil lands in Oklahoma, officials in Washington have considered government lands in California, though it is suggested that these might involve title litigation. Admiral Griffin suggested the Osage lands in Oklahoma, adding that there are also undeveloped oil lands in Alaska.

The admiral's statement says that if the government should produce its own oil it could have the large pipe line transportation profit by building its own pipe lines. The saving, compared with present conditions, would be from $1,000,000 upwards annually.

A $500,000 appropriation to lease "a quarter section of highly probable land" is recommended as a beginning.

The navy during the last fiscal year used 400,000 barrels of oil. "Under war conditions," the statement says, "there might be periods when we would be using at the rate of five or six times that quantity."

"Probably the most logical method of beginning operations in California is to await the outcome of the present suits for recovery of oil lands, and in case of decision favorable to the government to take over the developed lands which may revert to the government as additional portions of the navy petroleum reserves."

GO-TO-CHURCH SUNDAY.

From present indications the weather for tomorrow promises to test the church going sentiment which is developing among Seymour people. But whatever the weather conditions the citizens of Seymour should respond heartily to the invitation which has been given to attend some church service in this city tomorrow. It is hoped that every man, woman and child may hear the gospel message. Special music has been arranged by most of the churches and the pastors have a message of help for their hearers. The church of today is arousing to the demand of these times that it bring to the world a living, vital gospel.

The Advance in discussing "What the Age Needs" speaks truly when it says:

"There are answers not a few to the question of the chief need of the time.

"The politician is certain that what we need is the acceptance of certain political principles or the control of power by a given party. The economist sees the necessity of increasing the purchasing power of the average wage. The sociologist seeks a more equitable distribution of wealth. The educator is sure that popular education is a panacea for the world's ills.

"But there is something deeper and more fundamental. If we were not sure of this life would be chaos. How could man become even civilized if he were forever on the isthmus described by Pope.

"In doubt his mind or body to prefer, Born but to die, and reasoning but to err?"

"Righteousness is fundamental. He who believes in God has uttered the whole creed. He who follows righteousness sees God. In this day of new and shallow theories, when anything that has the grace of novelty may become a nine days' wonder, it is well to remember that some things are not in question.

"That right is better than wrong; that truth is better than a lie; that it is better to be kind than to be fierce, pure than foul, hopeful than despondent, Christ-like than demoniacal.

"To be Christ-like is fundamental to stable government, good social order and to the glory of the good time coming, which the sociologist calls by another name, but means what the Christian means when he speaks of the kingdom of heaven."

B. Y. P. U. SOCIAL.

The Baptist Young People's Union gave a very enjoyable social in the Sunday School room Friday evening. There was a good attendance and all entered heartily into the pleasures of the evening. One feature was a bean contest. Each person entering was given twelve beans and in answer to any question to which he replied "Yes" or "No" he was required to give up one bean to the person asking the question. After all the other games were over an auction sale was held of various articles, payment being made with beans. Many who attended were dressed in old time costumes, some dresses being more than forty years old. This social was the first of a series which the young people plan to hold each month this year.

CORPORATIONS FOR OHIO COAL MINES MAY CLOSE

Supply in Storage and For Immediate Shipments Larger Than Ever Before.

By United Press.

Cleveland, O., Jan. 31.—It was estimated that railroads and other big corporations throughout Ohio today had a larger supply of coal in storage or ordered for immediate delivery than at any one time in their history.

The action was taken following notice from co-operators that Ohio mines might be closed April 1, upon which date the agreement between miners and operators expires.

Coal operators also claim that the passage of an anti-screen bill introduced into the legislature, by which miners are paid on a run-of-the-mine basis or for all coal mined and not upon the amount left when the coal has been screened will force them to close because they allege they will be unable to operate at a profit. They will be supported, it is claimed, by all operators in the country who fear similar laws may be passed in other states if the anti-screen law is successful in Ohio. A commission appointed by the governor investigated the mining situation in Ohio and recommended the bill.

ALL MEN ARE NOT BORN FREE AND EQUAL SAYS MINISTER

Rev. Joshua Stansfield of Indianapolis, Declares Tendency is to Forget Individual.

By United Press.

Indianapolis, Jan. 31.—"It is not true that all men are born free and equal," said Rev. Joshua Stansfield, pastor of the Meridian M. E. church, speaking on "Personal Responsibility."

"Strictly speaking, there is a marked individuality and a wide diversity of temperament, capacity, disposition and ability. The tendency in recent years has been to forget the individual in the consideration of the masses. Persons are presumed to be determined by their class, or place, or condition, and the question of personal life and personal living has been quite largely removed and replaced by the question of the masses."

"For the development and salvation and highest good of young men and women, I urge the wholesome Bible doctrine of personal responsibility. I beg of you, upon every moral question and every material interest of life, bear your own burden of individual thinking, and choosing, and willing and doing."

BRAVE WORK OF DOOMED SEAMEN

Regardless of Self They Saved Passengers.

Sinking of the Old Dominion Liner Monroe Off the Virginia Coast, in Collision With the Nantucket, Was Marked by Deeds of Heroism and Self-Sacrifice Which Maintained the Best Traditions of the Sea.

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 31.—The sinking of the 4,700-ton passenger steamship Monroe of the Old Dominion Steamship company, which was rammed in the dense sea fog by the steamer Nantucket of the Merchants' and Miners' Transportation company, off Hog Island, is regarded as the most shocking tragedy in the history of the Atlantic coastwise trade. The Monroe, rent from her stem clear back to her engine room, filled and sank within ten minutes of the collision.

The Monroe had left Norfolk for New York with a full crew, a heavy passenger list and a cargo valued at more than $500,000. The Nantucket was inbound from Boston with a few passengers and considerable cargo.

In the dead of night, with the stars shining brilliantly overhead, but the two ships surrounded by a dense sea fog, they approached each other. Not until they were within actual hail of the voice did the officers of either craft discern the lights of the other. Then it was too late. The whistles shrieked their warning, the signal bells tinkled, "Stop her; back her!" but too late. The great steel prow of the Nantucket struck the Monroe about thirty feet abaft her port bow. Right through her plates the chilled steel cutwater of the Nantucket crushed its way like a knife through cheese. The ship was rent in an instant. The blow had struck to her very vitals. She filled and sank within ten minutes. Like a plummet she dove for the bottom and now lies wholly submerged in forty fathoms of water.

Shocking as was the tragedy, the gallantry of the officers and crew of the doomed ship and of the vessel which had struck the fearful blow must furnish a brilliant page for the annals of the American merchant marine. The white seamen and the black stewards vied with each other in deeds of gallantry and self-sacrifice that find their prototypes in the history of the men of the sea from the days of Drake to the present time.

Of the passenger list of the Monroe there were just twenty lives lost. The crew suffered more severely. Penned in the bunks below, many, in the few minutes of life that remained to the ship after the collision, were unable to escape. In the quick inrush of the waters and amidst the clouds of escaping steam and billowing smoke from the firerooms, they struggled to the deck too late to provide themselves with life preservers, and they went to the bottom of the Atlantic.

The great hole in the side of the Monroe extended more than a third of the way diagonally through the ship. It reached to the forward portion of the engine room. Instantly the dynamo furnishing light for the vessel was put out of commission and the lights all over the ship were extinguished. Without a word from his captain and in the face of almost certain death, Assistant Engineer Oscar Perkins dashed below and started dynamo No. 2. The ship was at once flooded with light and the passengers were thus enabled to see their way about in the darkness. The stewards, ready at every side with life preservers, assisted the passengers, the most of whom were clad only in nightrobes. They fastened the preservers about them; they helped them over the side to the boats; they calmed, cheered and encouraged them, and let this be remembered, these stewards were black men. Many of them were drowned in the rush of waters that followed the downward plunge of the ship.

There was no panic. Following the sinking of the ship there were loud outcries from the passengers and members of the crew, floundering in the sea. As fast as the boats from the Nantucket could pick up the distressed these cries were stilled. There was no disorder.

The forty-one lost comprised fourteen first-class and five second-class passengers and twenty-two members of the crew. Thirty passengers and fifty-five of the crew were saved, making the list of rescued eighty-five. Captain Johnson of the Monroe and all his officers but one were among the saved. The lost officer was the second engineer.

The Nantucket is known as the hoodoo ship of the line. She once burned to the water's edge, was raised and rebuilt. At another time she rammed a barge.

Shelby M. Cullom, former United States senator, of Illinois, left an estate valued at more than $100,000.

SIGNIFICANT BIT OF JAPANESE POLITENESS

Mr. O'Shaughnessy Receives Ceremonious Visitors.

Brownsville, Tex., Jan. 31.—Four hundred federals were killed in the battle of Concepcion del Oro, Zacatecas, or were executed after being captured, according to an official report to Constitutional headquarters in Matamoros. The rebels lost seven killed and seventy wounded.

Washington, Jan. 31.—Presumably for the purpose of checking rumors in Mexico and the United States regarding the attitude of the Japanese government toward the United States in regard to the Mexican situation, the Japanese minister to Mexico, the commander of the Japanese cruiser Idzuma, now in Mexican waters, and his officers, made a formal call upon Nelson O'Shaughnessy, charge d'affaires of the American embassy at Mexico City. All the visitors wore uniforms and the call was made as ceremonious as possible.

It is believed that the Japanese government has taken advantage of this opportunity to emphasize its assertions of friendship for the United States and to put a better light on recent happenings in regard to the Mexican situation.

The Japanese embassy here has previously indicated a belief that some persons in Mexico City were not above trying to make capital for Huerta and at the same time irritate the United States by exaggerating the intimacy between Japan and Mexico. It was stated by Japanese representatives here that the commander of the Idzuma would not be permitted to accept any undue honors from the Huerta government which might give basis to the charge that Japan was unduly sympathetic with the cause of the provisional president.

Charged With Forgery.
Evansville, Ind., Jan. 31.—Frank Schaefer, a retail grocer, was arrested charged with passing worthless checks amounting to nearly $200. He was released on bond.

LEFT THE JURY ROOM IN TEARS

Contractor Subjected to a Remarkable Ordeal.

SAID HE COULDN'T REMEMBER

Mercilessly Quizzed Regarding His Former Statements That It Was James E. Gaffney, Friend of Murphy, Who Approached Him For a $150,000 Contribution, James C. Stewart Still Insisted He Did Not Know.

New York, Jan. 31.—James C. Stewart, who told Charles F. Murphy, United States Senator James A. O'Gorman and District Attorney Whitman that it was James E. Gaffney who asked him for a contribution of $150,000 while Stewart's bids on canal work were under consideration by the canal board, was confronted in the district attorney's office by James E. Gaffney, baseball magnate, contractor and friend of Charles F. Murphy. The two of them shook hands as if they had never seen each other before.

Whitman then called Stewart into his private office, where he asked him if he were still convinced that the man who approached him was James E. Gaffney.

Stewart told the district attorney that he still believed it was James E. Gaffney, but he said he could not say positively that the man in the outer office was the man who had asked him for $150,000. Whether the fourteen months passed since the attempted hold-up had changed the appearance of Gaffney he could not say, but it was beyond his conscience to pick out the man to whom he had just been introduced. The district attorney then demanded to know why Stewart first had gone to Charles F. Murphy with a tale of being held up by Gaffney, why he had told Senator O'Gorman that it was James E. Gaffney, and finally why he had informed the district attorney that he was prepared to tell the grand jury that it was James E. Gaffney.

To all of which Stewart replied that he still thought that it was James E. Gaffney and that he was prepared to go before the grand jury and make that statement under oath. But he was not prepared to say that the James E. Gaffney in his mind was the same individual with whom he had been confronted in the district attorney's office. Stewart then went before the grand jury. When he came out at the end of three hours' grilling the tears were streaming down his face. He was far from being the self-possessed man who appeared before Chief Magistrate McAdoo three weeks ago. As he and the district attorney passed through the corridor he stopped and placed both hands on Whitman.

"Judge," he said, "I'm awfully sorry, but I honestly cannot remember."

Gaffney and his counsel left the district attorney's office bearing an invitation to appear before the grand jury. Whitman asked Gaffney if he were willing to declare that he was not the man who approached Stewart. Gaffney laughed the request away. Then he was asked if he would waive immunity and go before the grand jury. To which Gaffney replied that he would be guided by the advice of his counsel.

As he came out Gaffney was told that Stewart had been unable to recognize him as a man he had ever seen before. Gaffney laughed.

WOMEN RESENT THIS ORDER

Military Ban on Slit Skirts Arouses Their Ire.

Budapest, Jan. 31.—In consequence of the order issued by Field Marshal Fokele, the commander of the garrison here, that women would not be allowed to appear in slit skirts at any functions of the officers' corps, all the women who had been invited to a military ball at the casino refused to attend. The ball had to be postponed. The women declare that they will not attend any military ball so long as the order of Field Marshal Fokele stands.

Haas Escaped Death Penalty.

Indianapolis, Jan. 31.—Herman Haas, former saloon keeper, charged with murdering his wife, was found guilty of involuntary manslaughter by a jury in criminal court. The prosecuting attorney had asked the death penalty, while the defense followed the theory of accidental shooting or self-defense. The verdict carries with it a sentence of two to twenty-one years in the state prison.

Steffy Will Bring Suit.

Knox, Ind., Jan. 31.—Samuel F. Steffy, on trial for the killing of Pearl Hettinger of Pulaski county, was discharged by Judge Steiss, the state failing to connect Steffy with the tragedy, thus confirming the original theory that the woman accidentally shot herself. He will bring action for $25,000 for false arrest.

Jumps Under Moving Train.

Shelbyville, Ind., Jan. 31.—John Grimes, aged thirty-five, of Cincinnati, committed suicide by throwing himself under the wheels of a Pennsylvania passenger train near Rays crossing. Several persons witnessed the act. The man had been working with a bridge construction gang.

LOUIS BOTHA

South African Premier Firm in His Anti-Strike Attitude.

GOVERNMENT HOLDS FAST TO DECISION

South African Cabinet Justifies Its Actions.

Cape Town, Jan. 31.—Opening of parliament of the Union of South Africa was marked by riotous scenes. It was apparent that Gen. Louis Botha, the premier, and his cabinet ministers would be promptly called on to justify to the country the iron handed methods they adopted in dealing with the recent strike, particularly the deportation of ten labor leaders.

Viscount Gladstone, the governor general, in his opening speech, said that the declaration of martial law by the government had been "an imperative duty." He made no reference to the deportation of the labor leaders.

General Jan Christiaan Smuts, minister of defense, sprang to his feet at the earliest opportunity to give notice that he would, on Monday, move a bill to indemnify the government for all its acts under martial law and to prohibit the return of the deported men, thus raising an effective bar to the efforts of the labor representatives to move the immediate discussion of "the surreptitious deportation of ten citizens without trial."

Time after time the labor members in vehement language and amid a great uproar tried to debate "the crime of kidnapping citizens," but the speaker refused to allow them to continue. The session closed with the din still in progress.

HOLD PRIESTS FOR RANSOM

Chinese Brigands Slay One Missionary and Capture Two.

Shanghai, Jan. 31.—The bands of brigands who looted and burned Li-uanchow in the province of Anhwei, murdered a French Jesuit missionary named Riche and captured two others, Fathers Allain and De La Taille, and are holding them for ransom. The fourth missionary, Father Gilbert, escaped. A French gunboat has been ordered to get ready to sail from here for the scene.

A Lesson For Striking Postmen.

New York, Jan. 31.—Eleven of the fifteen mail wagon drivers charged with conspiring to obstruct the mails during the recent strike were found guilty by a jury in the United States district court. The prosecution is the first of its kind ever undertaken under the federal law, which imposes a penalty of two years in jail, $10,000 fine or both for holding up the mails in any way.

Mr. Taft Goes Visiting.

Ottawa, Jan. 31.—Ex-President Taft arrived here last evening and is a guest of the Duke and Duchess of Connaught. Mr. Taft came from Toronto, where he made three speeches, one at Toronto university and the others before the Empire club and the Canadian club.

Son Protected His Mother.

Vincennes, Ind., Jan. 31.—James Soden, aged fifty-one, is dead from fracture of the skull. He attacked Mrs. Soden a few days ago and when Arthur Soden, his son, interfered, he turned on the son, attempting to strike him with a shovel. The son felled his parent with a club.

CHAPTER VIII.

What Happened Thirty Years Ago.

When Shirley came across the lawn at Rosewood, Major Montague Bristow sat under the arbor talking to her mother.

The major was massive-framed, with a strong jaw and a rubicund complexion—the sort that might be supposed to have attained the utmost benefit to be conferred by a consistent indulgence in mint-juleps. His blue eyes were piercing and arched with brows like sable rainbows, at variance with his heavy iron-gray hair and imperial. His head was leonine and he looked like a king who has humbled his enemy. It may be added that his linen was fine and immaculate, his black string-tie precisely tied and a pair of gold-rimmed eye-glasses swung by a flat black cord against his white waistcoat.

"Shirley," said her mother, "the major's brutal, and he shan't have his mint-julep."

"What has he been doing?" asked the other, her brows wrinkling in a delightful way she had.

"He has reminded me that I'm growing old."

Shirley looked at the major skeptically, for his chivalry was undoubted. During a long career in law and legislature it had been said of him that he could neither speak on the tariff question nor defend a man for murder, without first paying a tribute to "the women of the South, sah."

"Nothing of the sort," he rumbled. Mrs. Dandridge's face softened to wistfulness. "Shirley, am I?" she asked, with a quizzical, almost a droll uneasiness. "Why, I've got every emotion I've ever had. I read all the new French novels, and I'm even thinking of going in for the militant suffragette movement."

The girl had tossed her hat and crop on the table and seated herself

looking, I pour it into the bush there."

Major Bristow laughed as he bit the end off a cigar. "All the same," he said in his big rumbling voice, "you need 'em, I reckon. You need more than mint-juleps, too. You leave the whiskey to me and the doctor, and you take Shirley and pull out for Italy. Why not? A year there would do you a heap of good."

She shook her head. "No, Monty. It isn't what you think. It's—here."

She lifted her hand and touched her heart. "It's been so for a long time. But it may—it can't go on forever, you see. Nothing can."

The major had leaned forward in his chair. "Judith!" he said, and his hand twitched, "it isn't true!" And then, "How do you know?"

She smiled at him. "You remember when that big surgeon from Vienna came to see the doctor last year? Well, the doctor brought him to me. I'd known it before in a way, but it had gone farther than I thought. No one can tell just how long it may be. It may be years, of course, but I'm not taking any sea trips, Monty."

He cleared his throat and his voice was husky when he spoke. "Shirley doesn't know?"

"Certainly not. She mustn't." And then, in sudden sharpness: "You shan't tell her, Monty. You wouldn't dare!"

"No, indeed," he assured her quickly. "Of course not."

"It's just among us three, Doctor Southall and you and me. We three have had our secrets before, eh, Monty?"

"Yes, Judith, we have."

She bent toward him, her hands tightening on the cane. "After all, it's true. Today I am getting old. I may look only fifty, but I feel sixty and I'll admit to seventy-five. It's joy that keeps us young, and I didn't get my fair share of that, Monty. For just one little week my heart had it all—all—and then—well, then it was finished. It was finished long before I married Tom Dandridge. It isn't that I'm empty-headed. It's that I've been an empty-headed woman, Monty—as empty and dusty and desolate as the old house over yonder on the ridge."

"I know, Judith, I know."

"You've been empty in a way, too," she said. "But it's been a different way. You were never in love—really in love, I mean. Certainly not with me, Monty, though you tried to make me think so once upon a time, before Sassoon came along, and—Beauty Vallant."

The major blinked, suddenly startled. It was out, the one name neither had spoken to the other for thirty years! He looked at her a little guiltily; but her eyes had turned away. "Everything changed then," she continued dreamily, "everything."

The major's fingers strayed across his waistcoat, fumbling uncertainly for his eye-glasses. For an instant he, too, was back in the long-ago past, when he and Vallant had been comrades. It had been a curious three sided affair—he, and Vallant and Sassoon. Sassoon with his dissipated flair and ungovernable temper and strange fits of recklessness; clean, high-idealized, straight-away Vallant; and he—a Bristow, neither better nor worse than the rest of his name. He remembered that mad strained season when he had grimly recognized his own cause as hopeless, and with burning eyes had watched Sassoon and Vallant racing abreast. He remembered that glittering prodigal dance when he had come upon Vallant and Judith standing in the shrubbery, the candle-light from some open door engolding their faces: hers smiling, a little flippant perhaps, and conscious of her spell; his grave and earnest, yet wistful.

"You promise, John?"

"I give my sacred word. Whatever the provocation, I will not lift my hand against him. Never, never!" Then the same voice, vibrant, appealing. "Judith! It isn't because—because you care for him?"

He had plunged away in the darkness before her answer came. What had it mattered then to him what she had replied? And that very night had befallen the fatal quarrel!

The major started. How that name had blown away the dust! "That's a long time ago, Judith."

"Thirty years ago tomorrow they fought," she said softly, "Vallant and Sassoon. Every woman has her one anniversary, I suppose, and tomorrow's mine. Do you know what I do, every fourteenth of May, Monty?

I keep my room and spend the day always the same way. There's a little book I read. And there's an old hair-cloth trunk that I've had since I was a girl. Down in the bottom of it are some—things, that I take out and set round the room * * * and there is a handful of old letters I go over from first to last. They're almost worn out now, but I could repeat them all with my eyes shut. Then there's a tiny old straw basket with a yellow wisp in it that once was a bunch of cape jessamines. I wore them to that last ball—the night before it happened. The fourteenth of May used to be sad, but now, do you know, I look forward to it! I always have a lot of jessamines that particular day—I'll have Shirley get me some tomorrow—and in the evening, when I go downstairs, the house is full of the scent of them. All summer long it's roses, but on the fourteenth of May it has to be jessamines. Shirley must think me a whimsical old woman, but I insist on being humored."

He smiled, a little bleakly, and cleared his throat.

"Isn't it strange for me to be talking this way now?" she said presently. "Another proof that I'm getting old. But the date brings it very close; it seems, somehow, closer than ever this year—Monty, weren't you tremendously surprised when I married Tom Dandridge?"

"I certainly was."

"I'll tell you a secret. I was, too. I suppose I did it because of a sneaking feeling that some people were feeling sorry for me, which I never could stand. Well, he was a man any one might honor. I've always thought a woman ought to have two husbands: one to love and cherish, and the other to honor and obey. I had the latter, at any rate."

"And you've lived, Judith," he said. "Yes," she agreed, with a little sigh. "I've lived. I've had Shirley, and she's twenty and adorable. And I've had people enough, and books to read, and plenty of pretty things to look at, and old lace to wear, and I've kept my figure and my vanity—I'm not too old yet to thank the Lord for that! So don't talk to me about worsted shawls and horrible arctics. For I won't wear 'em. Not if I know myself! Here comes Shirley. She's made two juleps, and if you're a gentleman, you'll distract her attention till I've got rid of mine in my usual way."

The major, at the foot of the cherry-bordered lane, looked back across the box-hedge to where the two figures sat under the rose-arbor, the mother's face turned lovingly down to Shirley's at her knee. He stood a moment watching them from under his slouched hat-brim.

"You never looked at me that way, Judith, did you?" he sighed to himself. "It's been a long time, too, since I began to want you to—most forty years. When it came to the show-down, I wasn't even as fit as Tom Dandridge!"

OSTEOPATHY

BY THE Spauhurst Osteopaths

D. L. Robeson, resident. Full three year graduate in Osteopathy. Fifth year in Seymour, 14 West Second Street. Phone No. 557

"Shirley," said her mother, "The Major's Brutal."

by her mother's chair. "What was it he said, dearest?"

"He thinks I ought to wear a worsted shawl and arctics." Her mother thrust out one little thin-slipped foot, with its slender ankle gleaming through its open-work stocking like mother-of-pearl. "Imagine! In May. And he knows I'm vain of my feet! Major, if you had ever had a wife, you would have learned wisdom. But you mean well, and I'll take back what I said about the julep. You mix it, Shirley. Yours is even better than Ranston's."

"She makes me one every day, Monty," she continued, as Shirley went into the house. "And when she isn't looking, I pour it into the bush there."

Major Bristow laughed as he bit the end off a cigar. "All the same," he said in his big rumbling voice, "you need 'em, I reckon. You need more than mint-juleps, too. You leave the whiskey to me and the doctor, and you take Shirley and pull out for Italy. Why not? A year there would do you a heap of good."

She shook her head. "No, Monty. It isn't what you think. It's—here."

She lifted her hand and touched her heart. "It's been so for a long time. But it may—it can't go on forever, you see. Nothing can."

The major had leaned forward in his chair. "Judith!" he said, and his hand twitched, "it isn't true!" And then, "How do you know?"

Miss Marguerite Miller, who underwent an operation for appendicitis a week ago, continues to improve at the City Hospital.

R. S. Shriber, route agent of the Adams Express Company, has been here several days checking out O. E. Patterson, the agent, who is retiring from the service. Theodore P. Cordes, who has been driver, has been appointed agent temporarily. Will Wolter is driving the wagon.

The case of the state of Indiana against Mrs. Dora Kuehnwar has been set for trial before Mayor Ross for Monday. Both sides have subpoenaed many witnesses. The defendant is charged with selling adulterated butter to Keach's grocery, and at a former trial the jury was unable to reach a verdict.

Rev. Edward L. Pettus, pastor of the local Christian church, in conducting a revival service at the Brownstown Christian church and is meeting with much success. During the week there have been eight additions to the church. The services will be continued next week. The pastor, Rev. T. J. Due, is also actively engaged in the special meetings.

Fifteen mortgages on Seymour homes were released this week by the Cooperative Building and Loan Association. These mortgages had been matured the first of this month. Through the building association plan these stockholders along with hundreds of others in this and other building associations were able to pay for their homes in easy payments which were met without difficulty each week.

UNEXPECTED HELP FOR CONSTITUTIONAL REFORM

National Popular Government League to Enter State in Support of Referendum.

By United Press.

Indianapolis, Jan. 31.—Help from unexpected sources is coming to the constitutional reform forces in Indiana when the fight opens for adoption of the referendum at the November election for a constitutional convention.

The National Popular Government League, with headquarters in Washington, D. C., will enter the state in support of the referendum. Money and speakers will be poured into Indiana. Judson King, formerly editor of the Michigan labor unions' official organ and later labor representative in the Ohio constitution fight, is authority for the promised help here.

"The reason why Indiana has not kept pace with the more progressive states in overthrowing political corruption, but still submits to the rule of a boss like Taggart, has been a good deal of a puzzle to friends of progress throughout the nation."

Changeable Climate

IS A CONSTANT THREAT TO THE HEALTH OF THE PEOPLE.

Dr. Hartman, of Columbus, Ohio, discusses an important health topic. He says:

Yes, it is the climate, not the germs, that we have to fear in this country. The germs are present, to be sure, and are of some significance in diagnosis. Climate, a changeable climate, is the true cause of disease. The atmospheric pressure varies, the humidity of the atmosphere changes. Every day the temperature rises and falls. All this presents to the body very great trials to adjust to.

The area of high pressure forms in the northwest. Moves rapidly southeast, subjecting millions of our population to its influence. The result is, thousands upon thousands of people catch cold. A small per cent. of these thousands do not get well of their cold. It goes into pneumonia, or chronic catarrh, or bronchitis, or laryngitis, or pleurisy.

Now, what I am getting at is this. These climatic changes are inevitable. No one can prevent them. The very best we can do is to prepare for them, defend ourselves against them. Good health is the best preventive. The very best. Vigorous health, with excess vitality, this is Nature's own preventive and protection.

We do not all have this, however. Some of us must have assistance. The assistance that I use for myself, would recommend for my friends to use, my neighbors and my countrymen, is Pe-ru-na. Keep Pe-ru-na in the house.

If the children indicate they are catching cold, give them Pe-ru-na. If the parents, the grandfather or grandmother, present those symptoms that are so well known which precede a cold, a few doses of Pe-ru-na and the deed is done.

Some people are very subject to colds. Others who have weak lungs and are timid about our winter weather, take Pe-ru-na off and on during the whole winter season. The plan is a good one. The medicine is inexpensive. It does no possible harm to the system. It keeps the appetite regular and keen. It assists digestion and helps the user through the inclement weather of winter.

Onward March of Progress

The Ways of Yesterday Are Not the Ways of Today

Mark Twain said: "Loyalty to petrified opinions never yet broke a chain or freed a human soul in this world—and never will."

The world is growing better every day. But the men and women who deny this fact are hold-backs to its progress. However, those who bewail our abandonment of old standards in matters social, political and medical would prefer to live today rather than yesterday.

There have been hold-backs in every age since the world's first day. They are obstacles in the path of human progress. Mind you, it is the individual who refuses to accept new truths who is the least benefitted by them.

The first condition of success is an honest receptivity and a willingness to abandon all preconceived notions, however cherished, if they be found to contradict the truth. The history of all great truths shows them to have struggled through a period of determined opposition to their reception.

Only the better things permanently survive. Hence, Osteopathy has stood the test of searching investigation and has been weighed in the balance until the truth that it is Nature's best way to health shines forth with a light so convincing that its acceptance can no longer be resisted by the world of science and the world of pain.

Don't condemn new ideas simply because they differ radically from your present notions. Hold-backs are destined to stand still, though the world moves on. Life is a process of growth, and short sighted indeed is he who cannot observe the world's progress evidenced all about him. No man can be successful in health-getting, the same as in money-getting, who stands before the door of opportunity and fears to enter because of some new conditions that may meet him there.

Many sick people fail to regain health because they cleave to old traditions and superstitions. Thus they grope in the dark and refuse to accept Osteopathy as Nature's own hand-maid to health because it is new to them. They forget that our ancestors were not wiser than we and that old customs, old habits and old modes of life are giving way to new and better things.

You cannot live in the next century, but you can take advantage of the generous and good health that comes from Osteopathy, properly applied, if you will throw off the shackles of blind faith in old dogmas and decadent methods that have failed to keep step with modern progress.

Hold-backs will say impulsively they do not believe in Osteopathy. How can they believe or disbelieve without a knowledge of that which is to be believed. To disapprove without investigation is to act on ignorance and prejudice. Suppose you look into the merits of Osteopathy and give it a trial at the Spauldurst Osteopathic Offices, 14 W. Second St., Seymour.

Like all other great truths, Osteopathy has had to run the gauntlet of ignorance and prejudice before it was allowed to declare its usefulness to mankind. It courts investigation and will stand the test and prove the best. To deny the efficacy of Osteopathic treatment as exemplified by the Spauldurst Osteopaths in this community upon patients who have tried every other known remedy, would be as absurd as the juror's statement that he disagreed with the facts.

If you are struggling to get well and not improving under present treatment, do not be held back in the throes of misery by foolish prejudice and skepticism, but grasp the opportunity that Osteopathy offers you to get well and to keep well.

CLINCHING OF FIST MAY STOP OUTBURST OF ANGER

Dr. E. H. Lindley of State University, Tells of Explosions of Human Energy.

Bloomington, Ind., Jan. 31.—Love, anger, jealousy and fear are explosions of human energy that should be conserved and used gradually in the development of the individual to the highest possible state of perfection, stated Dr. E. H. Lindley of the psychology department of Indiana University, in a recent address to clubwomen in Indianapolis.

"These outbursts show how savage and ancient emotions are," he said. "Hate, love or fear burst out in wasteful ways, consuming a store of energy that if regulated and applied to things worth while would make the individual invincible.

"Our loves are dissipated on trivialities when there are so many things worth while and deserving, upon which the emotions could be brought to bear constructively. There are great sentiments capable of expansion of these explosions could be prevented and the power wasted in them correctly applied to better things."

Simple ways how to control these emotions were suggested by Dr. Lindley. A clinching of the fist may stop an angry outburst. Forced stimulation of laughter by grouping the facial muscles to produce a laugh may in reality produce pleasurable feeling and drive out displeasure. A lower emotion may be supplanted by a higher one.

ANNA BELLE'S New Winter Clothes

Dear Friends:—I know you think I'm out in the snow a great deal now, for last week we were out with Grandpa in the bobsled and now I'm showing us having a good time coasting. However, I know you enjoy seeing these things, and somehow I can't resist telling you about it. Marjorie and I have just gotten some new winter clothes which we think are very pretty and I hope you will like them as well.

Our SEWING SOCIETY is doing great work now and only last week we helped two poor widows by giving them some groceries, and then Uncle Ezra sent them a lot of coal, as they hadn't a bit of fire and no money to buy coal or wood. I tell you, dear old Uncle Ezra has certainly helped us a great deal, but of course, he knows that we are trying our best to do all we can for the poor and needy. Some day I hope our Society will be so well known throughout the United States that every boy and girl will be a member of or know of us and the good work we are trying to do.

How are you doing in your studies at school? Fine, I hope. I've been getting along nicely, although I've had to study a little hard on account of being absent the first two months of the term. You remember that Uncle Ezra and I were delayed in returning from our trip around the world. However, I'm so glad that we did spend the extra time, for we then visited several countries we wouldn't have seen otherwise. Now I must close, dear friends, hoping that you are doing just fine in school and that you are doing all you can for our ANNA BELLE SEWING SOCIETY. Lovingly, -

Anna Belle
